Re: Directive

Dear Mr. Turnage:

You are hereby directed to comply with the Phoenix Indian Medical Center's Chain of Command – Nursing Division Policy which is attached.

You are hereby directed to comply with the HHS' Standards of Conduct, 45 C.F.R. § 73.735-301(b) by showing courtesy in your day-by-day interaction with co-workers and to be polite and considerate of other employees, respecting their needs and concerns in the work environment.

To comply with these directives, you must be respectful in all your communications with your co-workers. You must follow your chain of command when addressing any grievance or complaint and cease including officials outside of the service unit on your email communications unless you are otherwise directed to do so.

This directive does not apply to, and will not interfere with your right to contact EEO, OIG, OSC, or EAP in exercising your protected rights as a federal employee.

Failure to comply with this directive may result in disciplinary or adverse action.

Sincerely,

Brandi V. Benjamin -S

Chain of Command – Nursing Division

COPY

I. Purpose:

Provide expected chain of command for communication for nursing personnel, including RNs, LPNs and NAs, to support effective communication and safe, quality care.

II. Policy:

In the event of a clinical or administrative concern during regular business hours, nursing personnel, including RNs, LPNs, and NAs, will comply with the following outlined chain of command:

Charge Nurse
↓
First Line Supervisor (Nurse Supervisor or Practice Manager as appropriate)
↓
Second Line Supervisor (Assistant Chief Nurse Officer (ambulatory or inpatient services as appropriate); Service Line Director
↓
Third Line Supervisor (Chief Nurse Officer)
↓
Chief Operations Officer
↓
Chief Executive Officer

Outside of business hours:

- Charge Nurse if present
- House Supervisor

- Administrator on Call

The structural order is provided as a general guide: the order may vary given the context of the individual situation.

If an individual does not feel the concern/problem has been appropriately addressed, the individual may contact the next level of supervision as appropriate.
